

What is ACE Blended Learning?

Upskilling or reskilling could be the key to unlocking a promotion or fresh career. Luckily, with ACE Blended Learning, training no longer means weeks out of the office, travelling to far flung cities and expensive hotel stays away from home.

Blended Learning has been around for a while and has long been supported by industry recognised IT vendors as a robust way to train. It's also growing in popularity with individuals and organisations alike – and with the flexibility it offers it's not hard to see why.

The ACE difference

Blended Learning offers learners the opportunity to learn online where they want, when they want, around their own existing work and personal commitments – potentially saving a huge amount of time and money with the extra benefit of a huge amount of flexibility. So far so good!

However, one of the potential drawbacks to learning online, is getting access to the right level of help when you need it. So how does what we offer differ to the rest?

Here at ACE we won't leave you to flounder. Our Blended Learning packages includes built in expert coaching, exam prep and a step-by-step guide on how to make the most of your learning experience to ensure you're set up for success.

Some packages even include an exam voucher, so you can achieve that increasingly important certification.
